

Red Robins

Monday 21st March 2022

This week's homework is science. We are continuing our topic of habitats have been looking at how animals can adapt to their habitat. Could you use your imagination to create your own animal and a habitat it could live in? Could you write one sentence telling me how your animal can survive in its habitat?

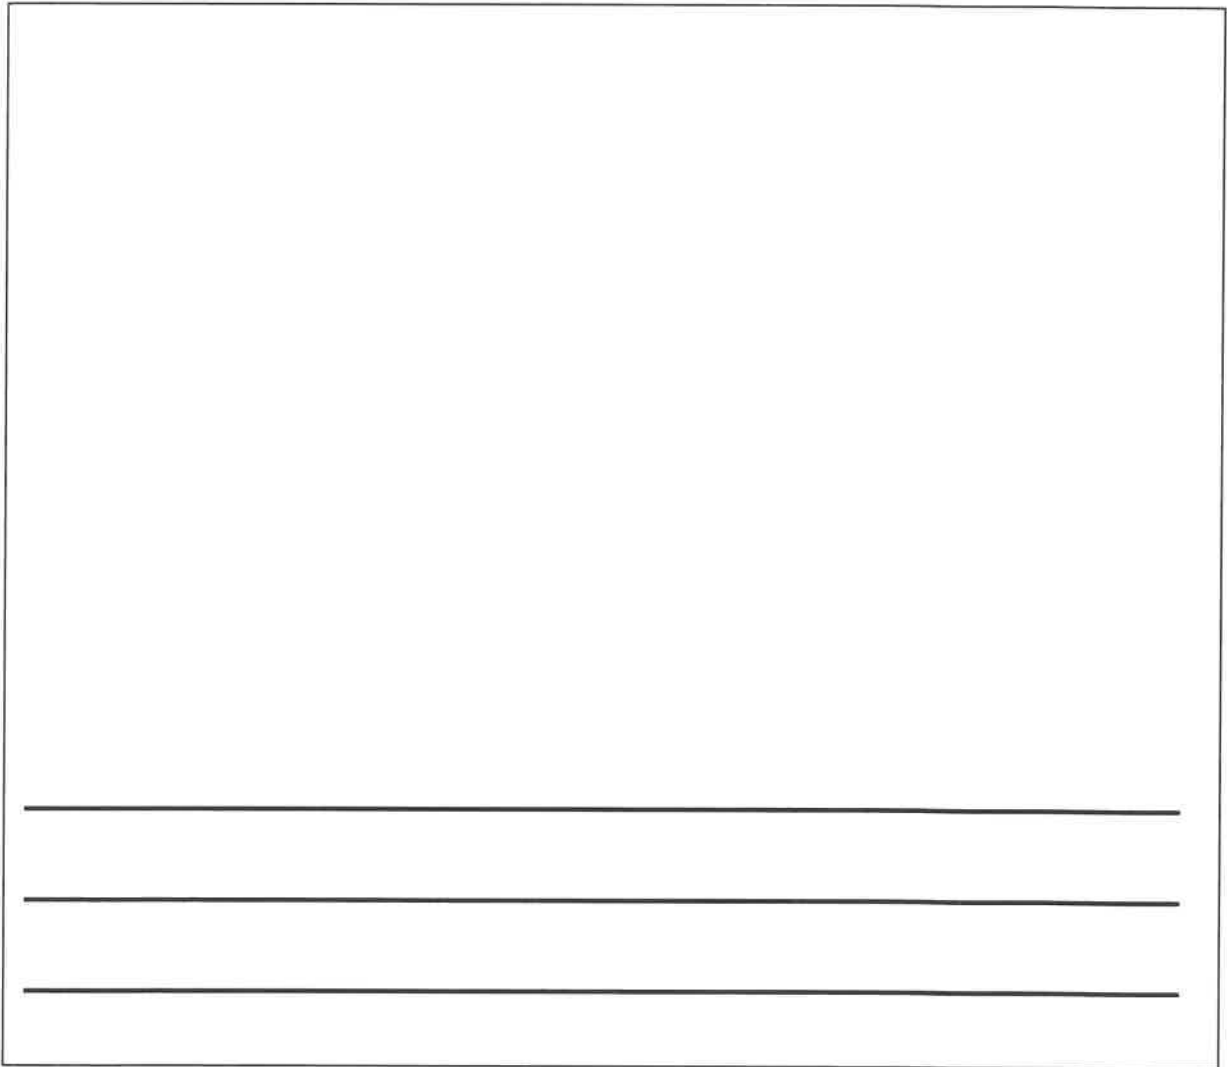

A large empty rectangular box for drawing or writing, with two horizontal lines near the bottom.

Magenta monkeys

Monday 21st March 2022

This week's homework is science. We are continuing our topic of habitats have been looking at how animals can adapt to their habitat. Could you use your imagination to create your own animal and a habitat it could live in? Could you write a few sentences telling me how your animal can survive in its habitat? E.g. lots of fur to keep it warm.

A large empty rectangular box for drawing or writing, with three horizontal lines near the bottom.

Turquoise Turtles

Monday 21st March 2022

This week's homework is science. We are continuing our topic of habitats have been looking at how animals can adapt to their habitat. Could you use your imagination to create your own animal and a habitat it could live in? You can draw a picture and then could you write a description about how your animal can adapt, in order to survive in its habitat.

