This week's homework is literacy and is a reading comprehension question. Can you carefully read the text on the first page and then have a go at answering the questions on the next page. Remember to read the question carefully and underline any words that are the same or similar.

The Moon and the Sun

One story from Africa tried to explain why the moon changes shape. In this story, the moon used to say that it was more beautiful than the sun. The sun was so angry that it broke the moon into pieces.

Ever since then, the moon has been scared of the sun. The moon is so scared, that on most nights it only shows a bit of its face. That is why you don't often see a full, round moon in the night sky.

The Thief

Long ago the moon did not shine. It wanted to have bright rays like the sun. So one day, when the sun was on the other side of the Earth, the moon stole some of the sun's light.

The sun was so angry that it splashed the moon with mud. You can still see those spots on the moon today.
